Albany breathing easier after Legislature kills Passamaquoddy Land Trust bill

Opponents of high-stakes gambling here rally to defeat bill in Maine Senate

By MICHAEL DANIELS

This chapter in the Albany Township's battle against high stakes Indian gambling is finally over.

A bill introduced by the Passamaquoddy Indian Tribe to make their land in Albany eligible for high-stakes gambling died Tuesday in the Maine Legislature.

"I'm just so happy," said Jeff Rosenblatt.

An attorney who has lived in Albany for more than 20 years, Rosenblatt has fought the gambling plan tirelessly since it was announced in 1996.

So has fellow Albany attorney Margaret Wille.

"It was a long haul, but now we can all finally start getting our own lives together," Wille said.

When the end finally came, early Tuesday in Augusta, local opponents of the plan were too exhausted, emotionally and physically, to celebrate.

Dotty Duddy, president of the Albany Improvement Association, was one of those on hand for the final vote Tuesday in the Maine House of Representatives.

"We were overwhelmed with relief," Duddy said. "I was home, by 1:30 in the afternoon, saw the ice was out on the pond, and fell into the first sound sleep I've had in years."

"The system worked for us," Duddy said.

The system worked, but as the battle came to a conclusion, the process put opponents of the gambling plan through an emotional wringer.

In February, they were elated when the Maine Supreme Court upheld an earlier Superior Court ruling, which concluded the land in Albany had not been put into Indian Trust, and thus could not be used for high-stakes gambling.

But the Passamaquoddys quickly filed a bill in the state Legislature seeking to amend a 1992 law in such a way as to retroactively put the land into trust.

Opponents of the plan won the first round in the Legislative skirmish.

They turned out in force for a hearing of the Judiciary Committee, which in late March voted 11-3 that the bill "ought not to pass."

From there the bill moved on to the state House of Representatives, where opponents made a tactical mistake that almost cost them the entire battle.

"We were too confident following the overwhelming committee vote," said Wille. "We made a weak case in the House, and the plan's supporters made their case very effectively."

Effectively enough that the House revived the bill, passing it 78-68.

That left the matter to be decided in the state Senate.

This time opponents didn't repeat the same mistake they had made in the House. With phone calls, letters, e-mail and face-to-face lobbying, they made their case to uncommitted senators.

Two boys rescued from swollen Sunday River

Police Chief Tripp, volunteer Jim Bennett forced to use skis for oars

By ALISON ALOISIO

Two local boys, hanging onto a tree for dear life, were plucked from the high waters of the Sunday River Sunday by Police Chief Darren Tripp and rescue volunteer Jim Bennett.

At about 2:15 p.m., Bethel fire and rescue were notified by Oxford County Dispatch that the boys, both sixth-graders, "were trapped on a raft behind the Riverbend Condominiums" on the Sunday River Road, Tripp said.

They had apparently been playing on an inner tube in the parking lot of the condos. "They got out into the current, and once you get out in the current, forget it," he said.

The boys washed out into the river, about 50 yards behind the condominiums, and then lodged against two alder trees, Tripp said. The water was about eight to 10 feet deep, he estimated.

When Tripp and two other officers arrived, two people were out in a canoe trying to reach the boys. But the strong current prevented them from getting close.

They returned to shore, and Tripp and Bennett, equipped with a rope and using skis for canoe paddles, set out to try their luck.

They were able to reach the boys. The men hoped to simply have the two hang on to the side of the canoe to go back to shore, rather than try to pull them into the unstable canoe. But the youngsters by then were too cold to grab the side and hold on.

One, however, had such a firm grip on the tree that Tripp had to pry his fingers off. The men then managed to pull the boys safely into the canoe.

Tripp estimated they were in the water at least 20 minutes. The boys were taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital, treated for hypothermia, and released.

Director of Massachusetts Voc/Tech school hired as new principal for Telstar

By ALISON ALOISIO

Telstar High/Middle School's new principal says he plans to "hit the floor running," in response to the wishes of the SAD44 School Board.

Dr. Patrick H. O'Neill was hired Monday evening to succeed Principal Ted Davis, who is retiring at the end of this school year. O'Neill's starting salary will be $70,000 a year. He has a two-year contract.

O'Neill, a native of Bronx, New York, currently serves as the director of the Southeastern Regional Vocational-Technical School in South Easton, Mass.

He said it has been traditional for new administrators to start slowly, observing and learning how the school has operated, before implementing new plans. But SAD44 school directors, he said, asked him to come into the position with fresh ideas regarding student achievement, curriculum and community involvement, he said.

O'Neill said it is important to make the school "a center of attraction for the community and the

GREENWOOD PLANNERS RESIGN

To the Editor:

We, the Greenwood Planning Board, regretfully resign from our planning board duties effective immediately. This decision has not been made in haste, but only after much discussion and thought.

Although none of us accepted this task for the money, we were dismayed and surprised when our stipends were cut, an indication to us that the services provided by this board were not valued by the rest of the community. And the covert manner in which this action was carried out, with no mention of it prior to the Town Meeting or any possibility of discussion, was completely unprofessional. If someone had a grievance or disagreed with our budget, we would have been agreeable to working together for a solution. We would have agreed to a budget cut had we been informed that it was necessary. Common courtesy seems to have been overlooked in this hasty decision.

This board has worked diligently to carry out the duties assigned to us. In addition, during our time on the board we successfully completed updating all maps, protecting Greenwood's natural resources and engaged ourselves working on projects and paperwork long neglected. We were dedicated to our positions and had we been approached previously concerning our budget, our resignation would not have been deemed necessary.

Although we will miss the opportunity to serve the town, we refuse to allow our positions to be devalued. We chose not to remain in a job where we are not respected or appreciated. We hope that the person responsible for this incident will be able to successfully fill our positions effectively and immediately.

PROJECT OPPORTUNITY FUNDS

To the Editor:

As Telstar's seniors receive their acceptances to post-secondary schools, colleges and universities, I would like to take the opportunity to remind them of the financial assistance available through Project Opportunity, Inc.

Over their years at Telstar, students have earned Project Opportunity "points" which make them eligible for scholarship assistance to pursue further schooling. To be considered, one must apply for this assistance prior to the application deadline of May 1. The application forms are available in the Telstar Guidance Office and must be returned to Mr. Davis in the high school office prior to the deadline.

Graduating from Telstar marks a milestone in one's education. As a community we are proud of these students. Project Opportunity, Inc. seeks to encourage all to continue with formal education by awarding scholarship aid to those who choose to go on to school.

Again, the Project Opportunity application deadline is May 1.

SAVE THE W.P. LIBRARY BUILDING

To the Editor:

I want it to be known I am in opposition to any addition being made to the West Paris Library.

In my opinion the only practical thing to do, after the money has been raised, is to build a new building on town-owned property near the Town Office where there is ample parking. A double-wide would be another alternative. The building would be handicapped accessible. A new building would also have better lighting and be much easier to heat. A basement would be used for a meeting room or for storage. It would also be nearer to the schools and might even encourage more children to use the facilities.

I am sure there would be some use for the old building in the future.

Please, we have one historical building in town and let's leave it that way.

WE DON'T NEED THE LITTER

To the Editor:

They know who they are. They are the lazy, discourteous creatures who have no problem throwing bottles, cans, fast-food cups and containers along with dirty diapers, cigarettes, etc., out of vehicle windows to land wherever they may, usually ending up on the side of our roadways and on private lawns and driveways.

I walk Route 2 in Hanover and see all types of garbage on the sides of our roads. I have even witnessed a person throw four or five paper napkins out of a car window. I realize four or five napkins can take up a lot of space in a vehicle. Give me a break. If we were all to throw our garbage into the streets, Maine would not be a very favorable place to live or visit.

I would like to suggest that those people with no common sense, not to mention common courtesy, put a small plastic or paper bag in their vehicle and put all garbage into it and drop it into a garbage can that can be found at most gas stations, restaurants, rest areas, etc.

Better yet, throw the garbage away at home and stop dumping it on others' property. Garbage is not wanted on our front lawns, and remember the next time there is a need to pull off to the side of a road, there could be a broken shard of glass that was smashed on the roadway by someone instead of being recycled.

Augusta Roll Call Report

by Steven Stycos

Each month while the Maine Legislature is in session, the Augusta Roll Call Report will detail the key votes of our area's legislators during the previous month.

The Roll Call Report is intended to help voters decide whether how well their elected representatives are representing the people who elected them. The Citizen urges its readers to clip and save these reports and refer to them later this year when candidates for state Representative and state Senator are seeking votes.

The Roll Call Report is researched and written by investigative reporter Steven Stycos using official House of Representatives and Senate documents.

The new lobby group, Maine Citizens Against Hand Gun Violence, is not making much headway with Oxford County legislators.

State Senators Richard Bennett (R-Oxford) and Norman Ferguson (R-Oxford) and Rep. Robert Cameron (R-Rumford) do not think Maine has a gun problem and, with a couple of small exceptions, do not support new gun control laws.

"I'm a strong supporter of the Second Amendment (to the U.S. Constitution) and I'm not going to vote for anything that would weaken that," says Ferguson, a member of the National Rifle Association and the Sportsman's Alliance of Maine, another pro-gun rights group.

Cameron, generally the most liberal of the three Republicans, notes, "I don't own a gun, I don't like 'em." But he adds that he would have "a very difficult time" supporting any legislation to increase gun control.

Gun control proposals, offers Bennett, "seem designed to advance a national agenda that doesn't apply to us (in Maine)."

Instead of gun control, the three legislators suggest tougher penalties for violent criminals and better parenting. "The violence is horrible," concedes Cameron, but he adds, "It's not based on gun manufacturers. It's based on lack of guidance in the home."

Cameron adds that those who do commit crimes with guns are not punished severely enough. "The legal system is no longer designed to give people a fair trial," he states, "It's designed to let people off."

"The bottom line," agrees Bennett, "is it's easy for criminals to get guns." The solution, he says, is "extraordinary punishment" for criminals and instilling a sense of responsibility among young people.

Ferguson argues that guns actually prevent crime, stating, "The presence of a firearm in a home is a deterrent to crime."

While no gun control legislation is expected to pass in Augusta this year, Cameron indicates he could support legislation designed to reduce domestic violence by preventing the subject of a protection from abuse order from having a concealed weapons permit. "That one I could support," he says, "not that I think it's going to make any difference (in preventing men from attacking their wives and girlfriends)."

Ferguson and Bennett oppose the bill, however. "Probably any individual can get a protective order versus another individual," Ferguson explains. And because of that, he argues, a concealed weapons permit should not be revoked unless a full court hearing is held. Currently, judges may revoke concealed weapon permits from subjects of protection orders, but the legislation would make it mandatory. Under current state law, people convicted of domestic violence automatically lose their concealed weapons permits.

Ferguson says he supports legislation, proposed in the U.S. Congress, to require buyers at gun shows to pass the same background checks that purchasers at gun shops must complete. Cameron says he supports instant computer background checks, but blasts proposals that also include a three-day waiting period as "a thinly veiled way of shutting down gun shows."

Ferguson reports being interviewed by the New York Times for the second time in his political career last week. A Times reporter called to discuss Maine's Clean Election Act, he relates. The Act, which allows candidates to receive public funds to finance their campaigns instead of soliciting campaign contributions, is viewed as a model of campaign finance reform which does not conflict with U.S. Supreme Court decisions on free speech rights.

The three-term state senator says the last time the nation's most prestigious newspaper was interested in him was during his first race for county commissioner in 1968. A Times photographer traveling with then Democratic vice presidential candidate Edmund Muskie photographed Ferguson and Muskie together at an Oxford County polling place on election day.

Below are some roll call votes taken by the Legislature. By the end of March, the state Senate had taken few significant roll calls. The attendance figure is the percentage of roll call votes for which a legislator was present as of March 30.

SENATE

Lower Utility Rates for Poor: 3/29/00 vote on LD 2140, sponsored by state Rep. Thomas Davidson (D-Brunswick), to empower the Maine Public Utilities Commission to approve discount gas rates for low-income people. Supporters say low-income customers deserve the same discounts other utility customers currently receive. Many opponents support discounts, but refused to support the bill unless it required them to be paid for by tax money, not by increasing rates on other gas customers. The bill passed 18-16.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Lower Utility Rates for Poor: 2/23/00 vote on LD 2140 (see Senate vote above). The bill passed 80-66.

Ban Union Dues for Politics: 2/8/00 vote on LD 1864, sponsored by state Rep. Jean Marvin (R-Cape Elizabeth), to stop unions from using dues to urge their members to support certain candidates or contribute to campaigns. Supporters say dues should only be spent on collective bargaining, unless members give written permission to spend them on politics. Opponents say the bill would cripple labor's participation in politics and give more power to the wealthy and corporations. The bill was defeated 37-103.

Prohibit Scalping: 2/18/00 vote on LD 1901, sponsored by state Rep. Nancy Sullivan (D-Biddeford), to ban reselling tickets for more than $2 higher than the original price. Sullivan says the bill would stop speculators from ripping off young concertgoers. But opponents say scalping is not a problem in Maine and many performers are taking steps to stop it. The bill was defeated 55-88.

Ban Squaw on Official Names: 3/15/00 vote on LD 2418, sponsored by Passamaquoddy representative Donald Soctomah, to prohibit the use of "squaw" in official names. Native Americans say "squaw" is as offensive as "nigger" and should be banned. Opponents object to renaming historical sites and say the word is not intentionally offensive. The legislation passed 129-17.

Strengthen Private Property Rights: 3/16/00 vote on LD 470, sponsored by state Rep. Kevin Glynn (R-South Portland), to require the state and municipalities to reimburse property owners when government regulations lower the value of property by more than 50 percent. Supporters say when government regulations prevent landowners from maximizing land's value they should be compensated. But opponents say this "takings" bill would discourage zoning and land use protection and clog the court system with legal cases. The bill was defeated 69-76.

Help Injured Workers See Specialists: 3/23/00 vote on LD 2561, sponsored by state Rep. Albion Goodwin (D-Pembroke), to make it easier for injured workers to use medical specialists. Under current workers' compensation law, an employer can block payment to a specialist. The worker then must appeal the decision to get the visit covered by insurance. Goodwin's bill reverses the process, so if a doctor refers a worker to a specialist, the employer must pay unless he wins an appeal that the treatment is "unnecessary or excessive." Supporters say the bill will help injured workers. Opponents worry about increasing workers' compensation costs for business. The bill passed 73-71.

Abolish Nuclear Weapons: 2/25/00 vote on a resolution, sponsored by state Rep. Linda McKee (D-Wayne), urging Congress to endorse treaties abolishing nuclear weapons and banning nuclear tests. Supporters note the cost and danger of nuclear weapons, while opponents question disarmament and say congress ignores legislative resolutions. The resolution failed 51-97.

Briefly

Pump your own at Bethel Irving

BETHEL—The Bethel Irving Station will no longer pump gasoline, effective immediately, according to owner Dwayne Bennett. Because of high costs, the station will now be self-service only.

Rte. 26 byways meeting tonight

NEWRY—The first meeting of the Route 26 corridor management committee will take place tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at the Newry Town Office. The group will be responsible for overseeing any improvements along the stretch of road between Newry Corner and the New Hampshire state line. The meeting is open to the public.

Making history in Newry

NEWRY—At the suggestion of resident Brooks Morton, selectmen will consider the formation of a committee to research and compile a history of the town of Newry, in preparation for its 200th Anniversary celebration in 2005. Involving townspeople in such a project, he said, would allow them to "see where we've gone, and out of it, see where we could go." Selectman Wendy Hanscom suggested volunteers could gather old photos to copy for a picture book. Morton also suggested the town contact the University of Maine at Farmington, to see if any history students would be interested in helping out as part of a senior project at the school. The board will discuss the idea further when chairman Steve Wight, who is away for two weeks, returns.

Use student parking lot

BETHEL—The SAD44 Transportation Department is asking drivers dropping off or picking up students at Telstar High School to use the student parking lot, rather than pulling up in front of the main entrance. There have been several instances recently in which drivers parking across from the entrance have pulled out and passed buses with red lights flashing. "The afternoon has particularly been a problem," said Burnie Rice, transportation supervisor. Rice said students often cut between buses to get to waiting cars, and are in danger of being hit. The fine for passing a stopped bus can range up to $1,000.

Special Town Meeting in Woodstock

WOODSTOCK—A special Town Meeting will take place Tuesday, April 18, at 7 p.m. at the Town Office conference room. Voters will consider whether to appropriate $13,000 from the Fire Truck Reserve Account to purchase a 1990 Ford F-350 XLT service truck, for use by the Fire Department. Town Manager Vern Maxfield said the department has been looking for such a vehicle for quite a while – and found it right after the annual Town Meeting. The truck would be used to carry a generator, air packs and other equipment currently carried on other trucks, as well as some new equipment recently purchased. It is equipped with radio and telephone would also serve as a command post at a fire.

Flat Road work delayed

BETHEL—Improvements to the Flat Road, to be administered by the U.S. Forest Service, have been postponed to the spring of 2001, according to Town Manager Scott Cole. Higher priorities, including the current "Roadless Area" initiative, were cited as reasons for the project's delay. The USFS plans to award a contract prior to Sept. 30, 2000.

"Artist's Bridge" comes to Bethel

BETHEL—An identical 50-percent-scale replica of "Artist's Bridge," located in Newry, is now under construction at the BIG Adventure Center in Bethel. It will be the focal point of the business's new 18-hole miniature golf course, also currently under construction. When completed, the bridge will span 50 feet over a stream (originating from a manmade waterfall) that will flow through the golf course.

WMNF spring burn planned

BETHEL—The U.S. Forest Service plans to begin its spring burning program in the White Mountain National Forest this month, as soon as ground and weather conditions are right for safe and effective burning. The service plans to burn small areas located around the national forest in Gilead, Albany, Mason and Batchelders Grant. The areas are mostly small openings in the forest, up to five acres in size, with the biggest measuring about 25 acres. Prescribed fire is a management tool used to maintain wildlife openings in the forest to provide grassy meadows or shrubby areas.

Board elections, THS resignations

ANDOVER—Andover director Kelly Scotti was re-elected chairman of the SAD44 School Board Monday evening. Elected as vice chair and vice chair pro tempore, respectively, were Elaine Cross and John Brown, both of Bethel. Directors were also informed by Supt. Kent Rosberg of the resignations of Telstar staff members Linda Blackman, Melissa Poirier, Felix Otero and Jane Munn.

CPS wired

BETHEL—The Crescent Park Elementary School has been named one of the top 100 wired schools in the country by the U.S. Department of Education. The recognition includes middle and high schools, as well as elementary schools. The selection, according to principal David Murphy, was based on a combination of statistical measurements and the progress CPS has made toward staff development and training of classroom teachers in the field of technology.

Cost is $15 per person (hors d'oeuvres and cash beverages). Make checks payable to SAD44 and send to Superintendent's Office, 284 Walkers Mills Road, Bethel 04217, by April 26. students. It should be showcased."

Coming from a vocational school administrative background, O'Neill said, he sees technical education as an important part of the high school curriculum. "College is important, but it's not for everyone," he said. "It's essential to have skills. You have to focus on life a lot earlier."

He is already familiar with the area, having owned a house in Greenwood for the past three years. He said he enjoys snowshoeing, fishing and kayaking.

He holds a doctor of education degree from Southeastern University in Florida (1997), a masters of science degree from Manhattan College in New York (1976) and a bachelor's degree from Manhattan College (1972).

O'Neill moved to Maine in 1976, and has held several education administration positions in the state. He was director and administrative officer of Maine Vocational Region 4, United Technologies Center, in Bangor from 1990-1994; director of the Hancock County Regional Vocational Center in Ellsworth from 1987-90; and teaching principal at the Adams School in Castine from 1984 to 1987.

SAD44 board chair Kelly Scotti said she believes O'Neill will be a good administrator for the Telstar complex. "He has experience, he has a strong curriculum background and he's an advocate for children," she said.

O'Neill will assume the position July 1. He said, however, that he plans to come up before then and meet some students and parents, and attend graduation.

Additional engineering charges force fifth vote on treatment plant financing

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel voters will be asked Monday to once again increase the amount of money they are paying for the recently completed overhaul and upgrading of the town's wastewater treatment plant.

This time they are being asked to appropriate an additional $37,500 from an undesignated fund balance and approve the payment of that amount to the engineering firm working on the project.

On a brighter note, they will also have the opportunity to accept a $700,000 grant from the Maine Department of Environmental Protection — money that will be used to pay down the existing debt on the project, thus helping to reduce user fees.

At the time the treatment-plant upgrade was approved by referendum in December 1996, the total cost of the work was projected at $1.7 million.

However, voters were told to expect that nearly $1 million of that amount would come from grants, and much of the balance would be offset by Sewer System Development Charges (the fees new users pay for hooking up to the system).

But due to a combination of factors the numbers did not work out that way.

Over the next three years the cost of the project increased, and much of the anticipated grant and SSDC revenue failed to materialize — in large part because of the failure of Bethel Station to generate new jobs or new buildings needing to hook up to the sewer system.

As a result, in October 1997 voters were called to a special Town Meeting to accept a $200,000 Community Development Block Grant, to be applied to increased cost of the project, which at that time was projected at $2.2 million.

Voters agreed, and they agreed again in March 1998, when they were called back to a second special Town Meeting and asked to increase the amount of authorized spending for the project to $2,336,170.

And nine weeks later they were back again at a third special Town Meeting — this time to approve borrowing another $200,000 to put toward the project. The additional borrowing was necessary to make up for the loss of a grant from the Maine Department of Economic and Community Development. That grant had been withheld because Bethel Station failed to create the projected new 200 jobs.

And in April of last year, voters again approved additional spending on the project — this time to the tune of up to $100,000 to cover additional engineering costs.

That meeting resulted from a claim by the town's engineering firm, Wright-Pierce, that it was owed an additional $114,000.

But new DEP grant should lead to reduction in user fees

W-P claimed that the expansion in the scope of the project, as well as unexpected difficulties encountered at the site and problems with the general contractor, led to the additional engineering hours.

But town selectmen balked. They conceded the factors cited by W-P had merit, but they argued that a professional engineering firm should have budgeted for such eventualities before signing a fixed-price contract for the project.

Difficult negotiations followed, and the situation was only resolved when one of the federal funding agencies offered $100,000 to settle the matter.

The selectmen reluctantly agreed to the arrangement, as did voters, and most hoped that was the last they would hear of financing problems associated with the upgrade.

But six months later W-P was back, seeking another $46,000, this time claiming the firm had been forced to provide engineering services the town had promised in April but then failed to deliver.

Problems with unqualified subcontractors also added to the problem, W-P claimed.

Once again, negotiations ensued, resulting in the proposal that goes to voters Monday.

Dutch Dresser, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, described the proposal as "likely in the best fiscal interest of the people of Bethel."

Town Manager Scott Cole said the arrangement was "the right thing to do. The work was done," he said, "and the engineers left us with a first-class facility that will meet the town's needs for many years to come."

A related article on Monday's warrant authorizes the selectmen to do the borrowing ($1.5 million) needed to restructure the financing package for the project's debt.

The proposed package will lower the current interest rate being paid by the town. And, when combined with a proposed $700,000 grant from the Maine DEP (also on the warrant), it should allow user rates to be reduced, Cole said, possibly as much as 10 to 15 percent.

The exact amount of the adjustment, he said, will be determined following a thorough analysis of the plant's operating budget and procedures.

Cole block covenants

An unrelated article on Monday's warrant is directed at clearing up a possible legal obstacle to renovations in the Cole Block's Odeon Hall.

The Cole Block was sold to the town in 1982, by its former occupant, the Bethel Savings Bank (now Northeast Bank).

The price was right (nominally $1), but the bank put covenants on the building, limiting changes to its appearance and restricting the uses to which it might by put.

The article on Monday's warrant (which has been approved by Northeast Bank's Board of Directors) would replace these covenants with a single restriction — that the building not be used for creation or delivery of financial services that could be considered to be in direct or indirect competition with the bank.

Town Manager Cole said the change would eliminate possible problems that might occur if the current renovation effort sought grant funding, and a title search (as is often required in such situations) uncovered the earlier, more restrictive covenants.

Monday's meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the Crescent Park School.

Gambling

(R-Norway) also lobbied their colleagues hard, and spoke strongly from the floor (see sidebar) against the bill.

Ferguson said later he was confident prior to the vote, based in part on firm commitments of a number of Democrats to vote against the bill.

That confidence proved justified. Opponents prevailed in the Senate, 19-6.

The bill was still technically alive at that point, but in a second House vote Tuesday (following more intense lobbying by opponents), representatives opted 86-50 to "recede and concur" with the Senate vote.

That killed the bill for this Legislative session.

The tribe can try again next year ("They have nothing to lose," said Rosenblatt.), but opponents feel this effort has laid a strong groundwork for contesting any future efforts to bring high-stakes gambling to Albany Township.

Sen. Rick Bennett's appeal to the Maine Senate to reject L.D. 2607

(Editor's note: One of the most decisive moments in the battle against high-stakes Indian gambling in Albany township came Saturday afternoon in the Maine Senate. Following presentations by other senate opponents of L.D. 2607 — a bill that would make that gambling possible — Sen. Rick Bennett (R-Norway) made his own case against it. What follows is the conclusion of his remarks.)

"Senator Benoit, the good Senator from Franklin, has addressed the legal issues extremely well. The good Senator from Oxford, Senator Ferguson, has talked about this history. The good Senator from Somerset, Senator Mills, has talked about the effect of gambling. But I rise here today because of all 35 members of this Senate, I may be the one who will be most affected by the vote here today.

"You see I live about four miles from Albany Township. This proposed gambling center would be in my community. Nearly in my neighborhood. The people here, those that you've been hearing from, are my neighbors.

"Now I have a confession to make. The confession is this, I actually like each and every member of this Senate. I have great respect and affection for every one of you. I don't expect that always to be reciprocated, but there it is.

"I believe my affection and respect is based on my belief that every member of this Senate shares two fundamental qualities. The first is empathy. You are all a caring people. You're a loving people. You are touched by the joy and the pain of others.

"I know you've met my daughter, Abigail. Mr. President, you've been good enough to relinquish your gavel to her control. Upon the birth of my son, Nathaniel, I received your warm wishes and genuine heartfelt affection.

"In many ways my son, my daughter, my wife, and I are a typical family in the greater Albany community. And I must say, we will feel devastated if this most unwelcomed of events, the building and operation of a gambling facility, comes about in our community.

"It will alter our lives fundamentally and forever. We, like every one of the 230 families in Albany and nearly everyone else in our community, oppose this Bill and oppose it strenuously. I implore you to listen, and more than that to feel, to feel the anguish of those of us who will have to live in the shadow of this gaming operation.

"Secondly, I know that each and every one of you share a bedrock belief in the principle of self-determination in this case, specifically the rules and statutes surrounding the operation of MITSIC, were not followed. The people of Albany and the people of my community were shut out and their voices cut off.

"Many are represented here today in the rear of our chamber, hoping and praying that their voices will be heard here today in the Maine Senate.

"Please do not believe that we can address today 400 years of injustice by committing another injustice.

"Please do not believe that yanking this issue out of the hands of the Supreme Court will contribute to justice, will yield a happy outcome.

"And I beseech you, please do not force this facility upon my community, my neighborhood, and my family. I implore you, please.

"This issue is of great importance and I ask you to reject the pending motion. Thank you."

The Bethel House

by Ruth Cummings

Drew and Judy Webster visited with Sheldon and Pat Prentiss in Bridgton recently.

Lillian Machia has moved to Norway so as to be near her family. Her address is 285 Main Street, Apt. 2, Norway, ME 04268.

Brian Cook and another man from PMV Coastal were at the Bethel House recently painting the apartment vacated by Frances Whitman when she moved to New York. Lindley Wieden cleaned the apartment. We will be having a new tenant moving in there soon.

Drew and Judy Webster baby-sat their little granddaughter, Claire, and they also visited one day with Mr. and Mrs. Mark Kjellman and family.

There was a very nice attendance at Bethel Alliance on Sunday. In the absence of Judy Webster, Ben Conant did a great job at the piano. Five lovely hymns were sung, "Down at the Cross," "The Old Rugged Cross," "Beneath the Cross of Jesus' Cavalry Covers it All" and "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." Pastor Rick had a great sermon entitled "The Body That Bled" part one. The closing prayer was given by Ben Conant. Thanks Ben, we will be seeing you again.

I certainly have some lovely neighbors here. A lady just brought me in some chowder for my supper. A couple of days ago another neighbor brought in some soup. Some of us in here often take something to a neighbor so that we do not always have to eat our own cooking all the time.

Sarah Stevens told me that she saw her first robin of the season on March 18.

Vada Glover spent the day with me Tuesday. We played 14 games of cribbage and each won seven. Now at 183 games for this year she is still one ahead. We went to Ketner's for eye drops and to Wal-Mart and ate a lovely chicken pie dinner at Shaner's. We just sat and gabbed a lot.

"Do not walk behind me I may not lead. Do not walk ahead of me I may not follow. Walk beside me and be my friend."

"As we walk with the Lord in the light of His word, what a glory He sheds on our way. While we do His good will He abides within us still, and with all who will trust and obey."

Ronnie Hanscom reported one and a-half inches of rain from Sunday until the afternoon of April 4.

Have a good week everyone and God bless.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

Hi readers. How are you this week? This is another nice, springy day.

Several people from town attended the Chinese Auction last Saturday night at the Fryeburg Academy's gym. What a lot of work getting all those items gathered and labeled and doing the actual auction. It was all fun and for a good cause. All items were donated by local people and businesses in the area. There were some really nice things all around in the room.

On Sunday, I attended the musical play "Hello Dolly" with Dale, Kitty and Matthew at the Oxford Hills High School in Norway. Again — what a lot of hard work for the people in it and wonderful talents shown — the music, singing, dancing, costumes, etc. It was just great. I'm glad they continued having them.

On Wednesday, April 5, the North Waterford Senior Citizens met at the church vestry for their monthly meeting, luncheon and little mini auction of donated items. That was fun. The luncheon, which was delicious, was hosted by Pastor Janice and Everet Wilcox. There were about 16 people present. The next meeting and potluck lunch will be on May 3, same place and same time.

A Stoneham Church public supper planning meeting took place on Wednesday, April 5, at the home of Eleanor Nelson with six people present. So you townspeople please be ready to help us with the cooking, baking, etc., for the church suppers this summer. That is one way you can help the church in town to survive and to keep going.

Did you see the moose in town last Sunday? He was up on Arlene Merrill's pasture for about three hours. Of course, I had to be out of town and missed seeing him. Maybe he'll come back again some day. Joyce White got a nice picture of him.

On Wednesday, April 5, 10 members of Daughters of Union Veterans Hannah F. Richardson Tent 19 and five members of the Bryant Pond Tent of D.U.V. went to Augusta to present the colors at the opening of the Legislature in the State House. The D.U.Vs were invited to be honorary pages for the day. It was an honor to be invited so the girls were part of the state government, marching into the House of Representatives with the flags and they led the leaders with "Pledge of Allegiance" and "The National Anthem." Those from the Stoneham tent were Gail Butterfield, Elaine Legieux, Loretta Andrews, Joyce Gouin, Lesley Dean, Beth Jones, Heidi and Heather Shugars and Amy Shibles. Two local Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War were also present, Bob Legieux and Luke Jones. Each of the participants was thanked for coming and were presented with a pen with the State of Maine seal on it.

Did you people save your Shop 'n Save receipts these past few months to win a Spring Meal Deal? I did, but haven't turned them in yet. I hope it isn't too late. I'm still slow on the draw, but won't be caught speeding in that area, will I?

This past Sunday, Loretta Andrews hosted an outdoor chicken barbecue honoring Nicky Dunn's birthday. Present were Althea Sawyer, Everett Andrews, Darlene and Gregg Dunn and Crystal besides Nicky. It was a nice family get-together. Happy birthday to you, Nicky.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte

Saturday was early summer, Sunday became late fall and Monday was midwinter. Howling winds and blowing snow placed Upton in a raging blizzard. Sunday's rain filled the rivers and brooks, spilling over Route 26 at the Grafton Flats. Traffic had to be rerouted. Many people returned to their camps for an extended night's stay. Al Gagnon had an early morning medical appointment but was abruptly turned around by the floodwaters on Sunday afternoon. Stoney Brook opened again with a roar. The Dead Cambridge was a raging torrent.

Molly, the neighbors' dog, who was spending "Spring Break" with us, came to life at 6 a.m. on Monday morning prepared to drag me around in the snow on her appointed rounds. What she viewed as a delight, I saw as misery. Once I ventured out it was "bracing" to say the least.

The daffodils and crocuses that were just beginning to show above the soil were now covered with four inches of heavy, wet snow. April sure is a contradiction to spring in Upton.

Sunday night at the storm's peak we received a phone call from C.J. and Barbara Stratton bemoaning the fact that their magnolia tree was loaded with snow. They live in Eaton Town, N.J., and have a camp over on Birch Point here. They should see our answer to the magnolia.

The pussy willows are bent over with a coating of snow and ice. Vi and Ray Bernier had two mallards in their pond on Saturday. Monday morning they could have ice skated or built a snowman.

We have a retraction to make. Last week The Citizen published a picture of "Whitey," the calico deer. Although Richard has taken many pictures of the deer, he would be remiss in taking credit for this one. Walt Stanczyc snapped that picture from his kitchen window. Walt sees a lot of wildlife from that viewpoint. The other day the "Tom" turkey was eating out of the same spot as "Whitey," and they seemed to be getting along quite well until the turkey touched the little buck. "Whitey" jumped up with all four feet in the air and then bounded off into the woods at great speed to parts unknown.

Last fall, at the Andover Christmas Fair, I bought some peanut butter and seed coated pine cones. They have been dangling uselessly by the window since December. Once in awhile a chickadee would take a sample and fly off. There definitely was not much bird action going on. Since the Boy Scouts had made them for the fair and the price was right, I left them hanging all winter. This morning in the horrible weather the pine cones came to life. They were covered with ravenous starlings. Now I must admit I am not a starling fan. I always considered them gaudy, scroungy looking birds with none of the visible class of other birds. I have seen the decoration they leave on bridges and buildings down country. It's not a pretty sight. The poor, hungry critters stripped the pine cones clean and left the premises. As a "thank you" reward they paid me for the meal with a "whitewashey" streak down my windowpane. Gratitude?? I think not and I still think they have no class. They don't deserve it, but they are the "Bird of the Week."

South Woodstock

Craig Ryerson and son Keith have returned home after a couple of months in Taiwan.

Congratulations to Becky Chandler for being named to the dean's list at Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass. Becky is the daughter of Jim and Jane Chandler of South Woodstock. Dean's list honors are awarded to students who have earned a grade point average of 3.5 or above.

Emily Phillips also made the dean's list at Furman University of Greenville, N.C. Emily is the daughter of Carla and Brad Phillips of South Woodstock.

Brandy Poland was named to the dean's list at the University of Maine in Gorham. Brandy is the daughter of Dennis and Debbie Poland.

Science Fair winners at Telstar Middle School from the area: Jen Cox, seventh grade; sixth-grade semi-finalist was Heather Demarest; and Ben Shimamura and Casey Ryerson in eighth-grade.

An award from Bethel Family Health Center was given to Chea Davis.

Congratulations to Tony and Lorrie Wing on the birth of a son, Travis Elwood, born March 24, 2000. Paternal grandparents are Gary and Jeannine Wing of Bryant Pond and maternal grandparents are Fran and Sandy Davy of Kentucky.

Zachary Lynch celebrated his first birthday at his grandparents, Kellie and Brad Record's home in South Paris. There was a nice group on hand to watch him open his presents and help him celebrate. A "Tigger" birthday cake was served with ice cream. Zachary is the son of Sarah Hart and Phil Lynch of Biddeford.

I received a nice note from a lady in New Jersey saying she enjoyed my column (she subscribes to the paper). She also said she really was pleased to get the words to "My Sweetheart's the Man in the Moon" that I had put in the South Woodstock column this past winter. I was very glad to hear from her. She vacations at times in Maine.

Larry Billings, curator at Woodstock Historical Society, reports that he has received some more country furniture. It seems especially appropriate in our area, as most homes probably would not have grand furnishings.

Quote of the Week: "I've learned that everything is funny as long as it is happening to somebody else."

Locke Mills

by Lorraine Larson

Having been somewhat out of commission with this cold, I haven't picked up any newsy tidbits and my mind seems to be as plugged up as my nose has been, so when Andy said, "Write something." I said, "Duh, what?" I have already written ad-nausum about the animals and the pond, and — and — but really they are the things that delight me. For instance, one thing Princess loves to do is to go to the mail with Andy, so her morning is not complete if she hasn't been yet. So she watches every move he makes. This morning he said, "Want to go to the mail, pup?" and up went her head. But Andy is one of the worst procrastinators I know, so when he still sat in the chair down went her head again and the look of disgust she gave him was priceless. But when he got out of the chair, after first disengaging the claws of Miss Tizzy, who holds on for dear life and growls when someone wants to put her down, she was all excited again. Personally, I think I'd wait until his hand is on the doorknob and then it's no guarantee. But I'd better stop here before I have to admit it is somewhat like the pot calling the kettle black. Ah, me.

I suppose a column is not a column unless I do what the rest of the world seems to be doing and that's mention Elian Gonzales. Every show on TV that is live and some not so live have to have their say, except as Andy says, they never seem to mention what kind of a man his father is, which to us would be the important factor. One of the frustrating things about TV is you can yell questions, but it doesn't answer back.

Gerry Shimamura visited here Monday. Since we weren't in church she decided we needed a visit. I just hope she didn't catch my cold. Of course, while she was here I never thought to return her baking pan, which went home with me after the church dinner a couple of Sundays back. Then it contained pieces of pineapple upside-down cake which was super delicious and put my blood sugar off the wall; alas, one of the fun things about getting older. There are a lot of pluses, but that one isn't one of them.

Ann Fitzmorris took care of Ricky, Miranda's (formerly Cobb) little boy, Thursday morning while his mother had to be away. She reports he was just the best baby ever but she doesn't think she's ready to hang out her shingle just yet. One forgets very fast how much work a baby takes, even the best of them. Just the feeling of responsibility gets me tired before I even start.

The Historical Society recently explored the possibility of grants but found difficulty setting up a project that fitted its needs. Curator Larry Billings spent some time talking to Anne Bell in Augusta. She was very nice. The society wishes more people would join our group. We can always use new contributions of ideas and energy. The society's meetings and projects really are interesting and educational. The society thanks all its officers and members for their dedication. They all volunteer their time and substance to keep the society going and productive.

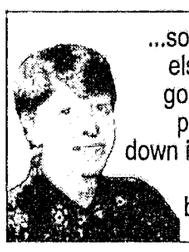
The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Have you ever noticed that there are certain foods that don't taste like they used to?

Remember how chocolate milk used to taste? Remember when it was rich and thick and had a true chocolate flavor? Well, it doesn't anymore. It still looks like it should taste like it used to, but it doesn't.

I come from a long line of milk drinkers, and as a kid, chocolate milk was a real special treat. There are certain things that are perfectly complimented by a cold glass of chocolate milk. It goes so well with a grilled hot dog on a toasted bun or chocolate chip cookies warm from the oven. White milk is, of course, good with these things, but chocolate milk, ah, the piece de resistance.



Well, real chocolate milk, as I remember it, doesn't exist anymore. I know, I've tried them all. At least some of the products on the market are honest enough to call it chocolate flavored drink. But every now and then I encounter a product that has the audacity to call itself chocolate milk.

Every time I hope against hope that it really is the chocolate milk of my youth. I buy the milk, run home and grill up some hot dogs or bake a batch of chocolate chip cookies and sit down to reward my taste buds. Every time I'm disappointed as my taste buds are bored to sleep by the dull tasteless watery liquid.

My taste buds have a similar reaction whenever I introduce them to real dairy butter. Butter doesn't taste like it used to either. I don't know how this can be. How could it possibly have changed from a strong creamy sweet taste to the tasteless spread it is today. I just can't understand it.

Again, back to my childhood, butter was the special occasion delight. Thanksgiving and Christmas and a few special events in between, butter was put on the table. The rest of the time we settled for margarine or oleo as we called it way back when. I had a few other choice names for it too until I tasted some of the newer fat-free spreads.

A hot yeast roll dripping in melted butter was a flavor sensation to be remembered. The delicate taste, the creamy texture, the subtle aroma. Unfortunately, the flavor sensation is only a memory because butter doesn't taste like that anymore. In fact, it barely tastes at all.

I don't know how or why the dairy industry took a natural, wholesome gift of nature and ruined it, but they did. It's a sad commentary on our times when imitation artificial spreads taste more like butter than butter tastes like butter.

Another food product that's been tampered with is soda crackers. This is a pretty simple food; some flour, a little baking soda, shortening for texture, water for moisture and salt for flavor, roll them, cut them and bake them. How can they screw that up?

Though soda crackers seem to be lacking in that crisp, crunchy texture they once had, the real difference is the thickness - there isn't any. They're so thin the darn things break apart in your hand. I know it's trite, but I get really frustrated when I go to spread peanut butter on a cracker only to have it break apart and I end up spreading the peanut butter all over my hand.

And the price! I'm not talking about prime rib here. Soda crackers, a little flour and water, a household staple. How can $2.00 a box be justified?

I'll tell you something else that's gone up in price and down in flavor, that's bologna. It doesn't taste like bologna. It doesn't even smell like bologna. I know it's best not to know how bologna is made, meat byproducts are better left undefined. But what else are they doing to it? It's either dull and tasteless or it has a strange unidentifiable smoked flavor. This isn't what bologna should taste like.

Now in this health conscious age you can buy turkey bologna or chicken bologna. Sure, they may be lower in fat, but why are turkey and chicken by-products any healthier for you than cow by-products. And they still don't taste like bologna.

Maybe nothing has really changed except me. Maybe one's taste buds are harder to please when we get older. Maybe our memories are always more flavorful than our realities.

There are a lot of other things in my life that are not quite like they used to be. My memory for one. I can remember when I used to remember everything. My body definitely won't hold up to the scrutiny that it did back when chocolate milk was real. I once had the stamina to go for days with very little sleep, now I can sleep for days.

In this ever changing world we live in, nothing is quite like it used to be. But the way I see it, if butter and chocolate milk could taste like they once did, it would be a change for the better and that's no bologna!

North Newry

by Gil Seeley

Call to worship was held on Sunday morning, April 2, at the Newry Community Church with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The prelude was by Jay Hanscom. The thought for the day was by Owen and Sue Wight. The message of the day was "The Walk of Life" from St. John 3:15, "That whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have eternal life." Hymns were sung, announcements, words of assurance from Psalms 18-46-48, prayer, Holy Communion, benediction and postlude, amen.

Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seeley, Betsy Clark and Bea Lowell were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford for some fun bowling one day last week. On the first string, Bea was high with a string of 89, beating Karlene by three pins. On the second string, Betsy took off again with a string of 94 and also on the third string with 100. So on the overall scores, Betsy was high on both the singles and triples. She had two strikes and one spare, Bea had one strike and one spare, Karlene had three spares and Gil one spare.

Last week, I had a surprise visit of relatives, Armand Minutelli and wife Eunice from North Hampton, N.H. whom I hadn't seen for about 30 years. We always kept in touch by Christmas cards, but they were busy with a family of six children and many grandchildren. I was so happy to see them. I talked my head off and also listened to their news. They promised they would come again this summer so that we can talk some more and do some reminiscing.

The Mothers Club and Recreation Committee will host an Easter Party on Saturday, April 22, at the Town Office at 10 a.m., rain or shine. Bring a basket and hunt for eggs, play games and enjoy some refreshments. We look forward to seeing you there — yes, you. All are welcome and encouraged to attend. If you don't have a basket or forget to bring one, there'll be some to borrow.

The Recreation Committee is also sponsoring a Contra Dance on Saturday, May 6. Since the Newry Grange Hall is being renovated, the dance will be held at the Locke Mills Town Hall on Route 26. Instruction will be given, no experience necessary, and you don't need a partner. Wear soft-soled shoes and come dance from 7 to 10 p.m. The PB and J Band (Pamey, Bill and Jim) will play. If you have any questions, call Nancy at 824-2115.

Mona and I are really proud of our bird of paradise plant. We have four beautiful blossoms just like the ones that grow in Hawaii, and another one will open any day now. I originally bought the plant from the Michigan Bulb Company catalog about seven or eight years ago. When it came in the mail, the plant was about two inches high and in a pot about two inches in diameter. Now, after several replantings in larger and larger pots, it is in a pot about 18 inches in diameter and 18 inches tall. The plant itself is about four feet tall and produced its first flower last year. Bet you didn't realize that Mason, Maine was a tropical paradise.

In other news, Mona and I have been experiencing technical difficulties almost all day (Sunday). We purchased a scanner yesterday, and hooked it up after church today. Then we put a brochure cover on the scanner and gave it a test run to see if we could copy it. Well, the scanner came on, but the printer lied and said it was out of paper — it wasn't. We tried all the troubleshooting fixes we could find, using the software contained on the scanner CD. We shut down the computer, checked all the cable connections, restarted the computer, scanner and printer several times. Still, the printer said it was out of paper. Finally, in frustration, Mona phoned her daughter, Katrina, who has a HP computer (same brand as our scanner) to get the tech support phone number of Hewlett Packard. After several minutes of conversation, we determined that our cable arrangement was incorrect. We had the scanner connected to the "USB" port on the computer and the printer cable connected from the scanner to the printer (as we had done with our old scanner, which died). Once we connected the printer to the computer, instead of the scanner, it worked as advertised. Only about six hours was wasted because I misread the diagram provided with the equipment.

It is nearly time for the trees to become misty green. New leaves will open and among the old of other years, the arbutus will nestle with tiny pink stars and will fill the air with fragrance. Along the edge of a clearing, the maples and woodbine will stand.

The air, clear and crisp where sounds ring out sharply, will carry far. The old year has given way to the new. Then lengthening twilight that speaks of spring will spread over the pond and land.

Spring -- how much we look forward to it.

Yesterday, I noticed from my window how the trees stood out dark against a sky golden with last of a sunset lonely and windswept. But there was something which lifted the heart. I wished for a rainbow to watch while bands of color slowly faded.

I have been ill for a couple of weeks and confined to my home.

I have received many cards and notes, also callers, for which I'm thankful.

Sunday River Valley

by Rockie Graham

What a week. At work, the main computer went down, which means the network doesn't work and our data base is hard to come by. Then there was a fire in our Bangor office and it was unusable for a week. Whew. I hurt my back and then it rained and rained and rained and then snowed. There were about six inches in my cellar, and thanks to Ralph, it is almost all gone. Now it may snow again and the Vista doesn't want to start. A quick jump got it started and after running a long while, I shut it off and nothing. The snow is gone for now, but is expected to return tonight.

I received a call from Nancy Babcock. Marion Sandstrom and Wendy Hanscom have joined the Newry Recreation Committee. The committee has two events planned. On April 22, the Mother's Club and the Newry Recreation Committee are joining forces to sponsor an Easter Party. The event begins at 10 a.m. There will be an Easter egg hunt, games and refreshments.

On Saturday, May 6, the two again get together to sponsor a contra dance. Due to construction at the Grange, the dance will be at the Locke Mills Hall. The PB & J Band will be playing upstairs and there will be refreshments (provided by the Mother's Club) downstairs. The dance is from 7 to 10 p.m. and the band will call and teach them all. All ages are welcome.

As this is National Poetry Month, the Bethel Area Poets Society will hold a reading on April 27 at the Café DiCocoa. The reading is from 7 to 9 p.m. and all are welcome. Start practicing and tidying up those poems and come and share. Question? Call me (824-3427).

A message for Arlan and Norm, our fearless legislators. Please consider the legislation asking for more public hearings on the sale of Blue Cross. We now know that the powers that be at Blue Cross got hefty raises – 19 to 42 percent when the company was in dire straights. Meanwhile, Blue Cross has gotten thousands of new customers due to the exit of other, for-profit, insurers. The price, in the face of that upturn for the Blues, has gone down instead of up. We need more public input. Call Arlan and Norm or e-mail them and ask. Do so now, before they rest for the summer.

Congratulations, Albany, on a hard-fought battle that may be won, at least for now. As the saying goes, it's not over till it's over, but right now, it looks like it's over. Good Work.

Have a good week. Beware the weather changes and get ready for springtime fun.

From the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

Walter Hatch, chairman of the Bethel Historical Society Board of Trustees and co-chair of the Capital Campaign Committee, announced this week that the society had received the second phase ($25,000) of a $75,000 challenge grant from the Betterment Fund for its capital campaign. The funds will assist the organization in transforming the 1821 Robinson House, a National Register property on Broad Street, to a state-of-the-art historical museum facility, which will contain exhibit space, a research library, rooms for craft and museum shop operations, a climate-controlled, fireproof facility for collections, and a classroom for students of all ages. This building and the adjoining society property, the Dr. Moses Mason House, now form the Regional History Center, which focuses on the northern New England past.

Once the campaign is completed, the Regional History Center, established in 1999, will offer a wider variety of exhibits, conferences, seminars, educational programming, and publications relating to the region's rich history.

"This is a very exciting development since we have had to match these challenges on a dollar-for-dollar basis," Hatch said in his announcement. "It will put us in a position of seeking matching funds for a $25,000 Phase III Challenge Grant from the Betterment Fund for endowment," he added.

To date, nearly $450,000 from over 300 individuals, corporations, and foundations has been received/pledged toward the $950,000 goal.

With a membership of over 1,100 from 45 states and several foreign nations, the society with a three-person personal staff and nearly a hundred volunteers, currently operates a period house museum and research library throughout the year. It sponsors a wide range of lectures, exhibits, special events, and educational programming. Its quarterly, The Courier, is sent to more than 1,200 members and friends. It has also received state and national awards for its regional publications. Those wishing further information regarding the capital campaign should call the society office at (207) 824-2908 or (800) 824-2900 or write P.O. Box 12, Bethel, ME 04217-0012 or use the e-mail address: (history@bdc.bethel.me.us).

From the Friends of Odeon Hall

If you don't know about the "human fly" who climbed up the front of Odeon Hall, you might like to ask Margaret Tibbitts about that exciting day the next time you see her. Three students from Telstar recently completed service projects that supported the restoration of the Hall. Gail Aloisio, Abby Beane, and Amy Green worked many hours during the week of March 20 on several projects-cleaning the Hall, taking inventory and measurements, drawing up a list of tasks to be done, and interviewing Bethel residents about their recollections of using the Hall. Many thanks to these three students for their interest and hard work

The Mahoosuc Arts Council recently submitted a grant proposal to the Maine Arts Commission for funding to get the restoration planning phase underway. John Cleveland, a consultant and grant writer from Auburn, will be working with the council and the Friends of Odeon Hall to determine what will be required to restore the Hall.

In addition, a warrant article for seed funding ($5,000) will be voted on at the Special Town Meeting on April 17. This money will pay for an architect to develop the restoration plans and estimate the associated costs.

If you haven't taken a look at the window of the Wild River Reality, please do. A group of community-spirited individuals (Deena Guillet, Sally Taylor, Janet Black, Ruthie Grover, Becky Kendall, Leslie Rosenberg, and Dottie Duddy) have put together a delightful display depicting what upper Maine Street looked like many years ago and explaining what the Millennium Committee is hoping to do with the bricks being purchased by Bethel citizens. Photographs are courtesy of the Bethel Historical Society.

In case you haven't heard, in Phase I of the "brick project," the bricks will be used to build new steps in front of the Cole Block. If you haven't had a chance to buy your brick, please contact the Millennium Committee (Janet Black at 824-0909) today so that your name will be among those on the new front steps of the Town offices and Odeon Hall. The next meeting of the Friends of Odeon Hall will be held at Crescent Park Elementary School on Tuesday, April 18, at 7 p.m. Everyone is welcome and we encourage you to join this exciting effort. Contact Vicki Rackliffe at 824-3575 or Jackie and Allen Cressy at 824-0508 for more information.

From the Mason McMillin Round Robin Bridge Club

The Mason-McMillin Bridge Club journeyed to the Town and Country Inn on Sunday, April 2, for the final Round Robin bridge game and delicious banquet.

The group voted to purchase books in memory of Dana Douglass and Jim McGinniss for the Bethel Library and one in memory of Sam Chittick in the Whitman Library in Bryant Pond.

Joanna Drummond took home honors for high score of the day. Sue Crane had the "honor" of low score for the day. For the year, Alan Bradford was first, with his partner Frank Gibson III taking second honors. Wendy Gray received third. Rich Grover garnered three prizes, high single for the year, low single for the year, and 10th place.

Our club is always looking for new members, whether new players or old pros. We play for fun and it's a great way to get to know some of your neighbors.

New committee members for the year 2000-2001 are: Jan Todd, Wendy Penley, Dutch and Elaine Dresser.

Barbara Douglass wishes to convey her appreciation to club members for the many expressions of sympathy and support and for the library donation in memory of her husband Doug.

From the Mahoosuc Arts Council

Mahoosuc Arts Council's Mountain Jam and Mountain Music hosted performances by more than 30 local artists on Saturday, April 8 at Telstar High School.

The Mountain Jam in the afternoon was an open competition featuring students vying for prize money.

Mountain Jam is often an opportunity for emerging acts to be seen.

The talent ranged from solo piano pieces and guitar duos to rock 'n roll bands and was emceed by Maria Cornwall.

Judges Paul Newton, Jan Koubiac, and Launa Keenan are to be thanked for their efforts to reach a consensus for first and second place prizewinners.

As an incentive to draw more acts to Mountain Jam, a winning act was picked to open for folk singer, Dave Mallett on April 29.

Amy Green won top honors and will be featured at Mallett's concert at 7:p.m. in Bingham Auditorium.

The other contestants included: Emily Gilbert, Leighton Campbell, Shanna Walker and James Lane, Maria Cornwall, Emily Gilbert, Amy Green and, Dust to Dust and the No Name Band.

Prizes were donated by the Council, AB Tree Service, The Suds' Hoot Night and Dick Haines Music Strings.

The evening's Mountain Music showcased local artists in concert including: Puckerbrush Cat, Jewel Clark, Donnie Katlin, Wendy Green, Mikhael Reinoso, Shanna Walker, Emily Gilbert, Maria Cornwall, Amy Green, Bill Rice, Nate Towne, Paul Newton, Kevin O'Reilly, Pete Coolidge, Betsy Cornwall, Paul Dube, Ellen Lindsay, Eric Lindsay, and Powah Crew.

Mahoosuc Arts would like to thank all of the artists participating in these events who contributed their time and shared their artistic talents with the community.

Mountain Jam and Mountain Music will be aired on Channel IV at a later date thanks to the efforts of Mikhael Reinoso.

Special thanks to the many people who make this annual event a success; Don Murphy, Wendy Green, Jewel Clark, Donnie Katlin, Maria Cornwall, Mitch Maddocks and the Telstar Athletic Boosters.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The chamber continues to grow. Welcome to new member North American Whitewater, West Forks, Elizabeth Mallen, owner. They can be reached via phone at (207) 663-4430, via e-mail at adventure@wtvl.net or you may view their web-site: www.nawhitewater.com

Many thanks to all who turned out for the chamber's Open House and Members Reception held on Tuesday evening at the chamber's information center and offices. What a treat all the donated food and door prizes were — a real contribution to the success of the event. Many thanks to board member Barbara Douglass and staff member Emily Beers, who made it all possible. If you happened to miss the excitement Tuesday night, you may come in to the chamber office at your leisure to try out Megalink's new high-speed DSL Internet service.

Women's Varsity Lacrosse

Tilton 12, Gould 10; April 8—Kyle Pribish '00 was Gould's leading scorer with four goals in a loss to Tilton School in the season opener on Saturday. Gould's offense fought back from a 9-4 halftime deficit, scoring six goals in the second half, but Tilton prevailed, adding three goals in the second half. Laura Jenks '00 scored three goals and notched one assist for Gould, Molly Gray '00 scored twice, and Adrien Smith '00 scored one goal in the game. Chelsey Bartlett '00 had six saves in goal in the first half, and Erin Curry '02, replacing her in goal for the second half, picked up 10 saves.

Men's Varsity Lacrosse

Tilton 5, Gould 3; April 8—Tristan Fischer '01 scored two goals for Gould and Angus Graham '01 added one goal and an assist in a loss to the Tilton Rams on Saturday. Gus Levy '01 notched ten saves in goal and was well supported by the strong performances of defensive players Peter Waitkun '01 and Andrew Drummond '00, with help from an effective midfield defense.

Varsity Baseball

Tilton 9, Gould 8; April 8—The mild temperatures and sun that preceded Saturday's game in Tilton, NH gave Gould's varsity baseball team their first chance this spring to play on a field. For the first time out, they showed great promise, twice coming back to take the lead. But in the bottom of the seventh, with Gould pitcher Keegan Burke '01 in his fourth inning of work, Tilton scored twice with two out to pull out a narrow victory. Defensively, Emmett Donovan '02 covered a lot of ground in center and made two fine catches, John Lynch '01 made a great block and tag at third, and Burke picked a runner off first. The offense was led by the three hits and five RBI's collected by team captain Patrick Donovan '01, including a three-run home run, and Lynch's first inning hit to drive in two runs. "It was a tough game to lose because everyone played hard—but I'm predicting a good season," said Donovan. —coach Chris Olson

SAWMILL DEMONSTRATION—Seven portable sawmills will be demonstrated on April 15 at a daylong event hosted by the Western Maine chapter of the Small Woodland Owners Association of Maine. The field day begins at 9 a.m. on Route 26, one and one-half miles north of the Market Square rotary next to the Maxi-Wood log yard. Timber King, Timber Harvester, Wood-Mizer, Jonsered and Baker will be on hand with mills as well as two Maine companies — Thomas of Brooks and Sanborn of Waterford.The demonstrations will run until noon and lunch will be available on-site. The Norway-Paris Kiwanis Club will have its Café K lunch wagon in full swing. SWOAM's traditional free coffee and doughnuts will be available at 8 a.m. After lunch, representatives from each company will be available for questions and further demonstrations. "Portable mills are the way of the future," said Western Maine chapter president, Walter Lang. "This demonstration will show a broad spectrum of mills from the simplest to the most sophisticated."Maine Forest Service Utilization Forester Peter Lammert will open the program with a brief discussion of circular saws compared to bandmills. He will also discuss goal setting before buying a mill as well as hydraulics, log sizes, bells and whistles, portable edgers and proper stickering for drying. He will be available for questions throughout the day. A Metavic forwarder trailer attached to a tractor will be used to move logs to each of the mills, along with Jonsered's Iron Horse log mover. For further information, contact Bill Haynes at (207) 583-2963 or e-mail at forest@maine.com.

Obituaries

ROBERT W. GOODWIN

Robert W. Goodwin, 86, a lifelong resident of Norway, prominent local businessman and dedicated community activist, died April 9, 2000.

He was the son of Stuart W. Goodwin of Norway and Margaret Stearns Goodwin of Paris Hill.

He graduated from Norway High School in 1932, having played on their Western Maine Championship Basketball Team.

He attended Duke University of Durham, N.C., graduating in 1936, where he was a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. His enthusiasm for Duke Blue Devil basketball continued throughout his life. Following graduation, he spent a short time in Boston and New York gaining insurance business experience. He then returned to Norway to join his father in the local insurance agency, Goodwin's Inc. Insurance. He remained there for over 60 years. His tenure there was interrupted only by a tour of duty in the U.S. Navy, serving as an officer in the Pacific Theater.

But it was to Norway that his heart belonged. He took great pride in serving that community and sharing in the daily life of its citizens.

He was elected to one term as Oxford County treasurer and was elected the Chamber of Commerce's second annual Citizen of the Year. He was president of the Norway Board of Trade, Sanborn Shoe Corporation, and the Norway Pine Grove Cemetery Association. He was a director of the Norway National Bank. He was a 60-year member of the Norway/Paris Kiwanis Club, the Oxford Lodge 18 AF&AM of Norway, and the American Legion. He chaired fundraising drives for the Norway Universalist Church, Stephens Memorial Hospital and the Masonic Building Fund.

He was an avid golfer. When his father helped organize the Norway Country Club, he began his own association there by cleaning the new fairways of stones, and served with distinction as a young caddymaster. He then served throughout his life on many of its governing committees.

He was married for over 50 years to the former Elinor Robinson of Oxford. Together they enjoyed traveling, especially to the golf links of Scotland, but he always returned eagerly to the hometown he loved.

Survivors include his wife of Norway; two sons, Stuart W. of Norway, Philip R. of New York City; a daughter, Alice M. Goodwin of Orono; a sister, Mrs. Janet Carrick of New Bern, N.C.; a niece, Jane Goodwin of Gloucester, Mass.; a nephew, Cpl. William Goodwin of Georgia.

Funeral services will be held Thursday, April 13, at the Universalist Unitarian Church, Norway. Public Masonic services by Oxford Lodge AF&AM will be held at 2 p.m. followed by a celebration of his life. Interment will be in the Norway Pine Grove Cemetery in South Paris. In lieu of flowers donations may be made to his Norway charities, including the Stephens Memorial Hospital, the Norway Masonic Lodge Building Fund, the Kiwanis Scholarship Trust or the Norway Universalist Church.

ABBIE G. DeGRANDI

Abbie G. DeGrandi, 94, died Monday, April 10, 2000 at the Bridgton Health Care Center.

She was born at Bridgton on Nov. 27, 1905, the daughter of Edward L. and Elizabeth Young Allen and received her education in the Bridgton schools.

Abbie married Joseph DeGrandi, who died in 1966.

She worked in local shoe shops, worked in the kitchen at Camp Woodland in South Bridgton and at the corn shop in Fryeburg. She had lived in the Bridgton area all her life.

Survivors include a brother, Rodney (Buster) Allen of Bridgton; two sisters, Ethel Damon of Norway and Florence Ayer of West Paris; and several nieces and nephews. She was predeceased by a son, Joseph.

Graveside services will be held at the Forest Hill Cemetery at 11 a.m. on Thursday, April 13.

DON'T LET IT HAPPEN.
If you think this baby is in danger, it's nothing compared to what can happen as early as the third week of pregnancy, when birth defects of the brain and spinal cord can occur. If you're a woman of childbearing age, take a multivitamin with folic acid every day as part of a healthy diet. Start now, pregnant or not, and help save a baby. For more information, visit our website at www.modimes.org or call your local March of Dimes chapter.
